SOLEMN PARADE AND SERVICES HONOR HEROES OF ALL WARS

OUR COVER

The American Legion color guard and firing squad led by Joseph A. McCarthy, World War I veteran, who served for 25 years as adjutant of the Post, is shown on our front cover. Entirely composed of World War II veterans, the firing squad consisted of Irving J. Whitcomb, present adjutant in charge, Christopher Murphy, Harold Eastwood, H. Garrison Holt, Garrett Burke, Thomas Lewis and Atty. Vincent F. Stulgis and Thomas Duff. Alan Dea and Roger Whitcomb made up the color guard.

Solemn dignity marked this year's Memorial Day parade whose line of march led the ranks to the town's three memorial buildings, where impressive services were conducted by the three veterans' organizations.

The parade was led by a platoon of police, with Sergeant William R. Hickey in charge, followed by the firemen, all veterans, led by Chief C. Edward Buchan. The colorful Clan MacPherson Pipe band preceeded the V. F. W. color guard and firing squad in charge of Peter Gervais, representatives of Post 2128, and members of the ladies' auxiliary.

A new addition to the line, the Sacred Heart School Band, headed the second division of Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and school children; the third division was composed of the American Legion band, the Legion color guard and firing squad, led by former Post Adjutant Joseph A. McCarthy, followed by representatives of Post 8 and the Ladies' Auxiliary, and the Amvets.

Commander William L. MacDonald of the American Legion was the chief marshal with Commander William Hulse of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Commander John Moriarty of the Amvets as his aides.

The delegation halted first at Memorial Hall library where the Veterans of Foreign Wars, assisted by the auxiliary, took charge of the services; second at the Memorial Tower where the American Legion and the Auxiliary directed the program; and third, at Memorial Auditorium, where the Amvets were in command.

After the parade broke up at the starting point on Park street, the patriotic organizations then proceeded by automobile to Spring Grove cemetery, where the V. F. W. and the Legion with their auxiliaries, conducted services at their respective lots. The Legion then held services at the South Church and accompanied the Amvets to St. Augustine's where Post 43 led the program. At the same time, the V. F. W. performed their ritual at West Parish.

An outstanding spirit of co-operation between the veterans of the two recent wars, among the three veterans' organizations and the auxiliaries, and among the schools and other patriotic groups taking part in the Memorial Day ceremonies, contributed to the unity and efficiency which dignified the services.

Welcoming the efforts of the Amvets in conducting their share of the program, the V. F. W. and the American Legion rendered valuable assistance to the new organization by lending their color guards and firing squads. The Sacred Heart school, also new in the line of march, besides providing a band, also played taps at several of the exercises.

Rev. John G. Gaskill, Very Rev. Thomas P. Fogarty, O.S.A., Rev. John S. Moses, Rev. Frederick B. Noss, Rev. Wendell L. Bailey, Rev. Henry B. Smith, O.S.A., representing Andover's churches, offered the prayers. Selectmen J. Everett Collins and Roy E. Hardy and State Senator Philip K. Allen marched with the Veterans organizations, and Ira Buxton, for many years was dedicated at a solemn ceremony Friday afternoon on the Indian Ridge school grounds. Mrs. John R. Sullivan, chairman of the committee, presided.

The service opened with a prayer offered by Rev. Matthew F. McDonald, O. S. A., of St. Augustine's church, and Joseph Rattyna followed with a recitation of Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Commander William Hulse of the Veterans of Foreign Wars then read the organization's ritual. Mrs. Sullivan, who spoke on behalf of the Indian Ridge Community association, had the honor of unveiling the memorial, assisted by Edwin Anderson. The program concluded with benediction by Rev. Levering Reynolds, Jr., of the Free church, and a salute to the dead by the Veterans of Foreign Wars firing squad.

The ceremony was attended by residents of the district and friends, and the V. F. W. color guard included Alexander Blamire, George Milne, Francis O'Connor, and Stanley Chlebowski. Peter Gervais, Calvin Deyermund, James Deyermund, James Platt, Thomas Eldred, and Barker Higgins were in the firing squad. The American Legion was represented by Frank Markey, and the Amvet representative was Miss Elizabeth Buchan.

The Indian Ridge Community association, which was organized during the war to strengthen the ties between the men and women in the armed forces and the folks at home, last year welcomed home the veterans from the district with a dinner and celebration, at which gifts were presented to all ex-servicemen. Funds for the Memorial plaque were also raised by the association, and the remaining amount will go towards playground equipment for the children of the Indian Ridge school and the surrounding community. The association plans to continue its activities to support the playground, which will serve as a living memorial to the war dead.

an active member of the Walter L. Raymond Camp, 111, Sons of Union Veterans took his place with the V. F. W. Lawrence M. Shields, Phillips Academy staff member who served as a Navy Commander during World War II, was the speaker at the Legion service at Memorial Tower. The Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Cubs, school children made an impressive division.

The day could not be compared with last year's Tercenary observance. The parade was not a long one, the services were brief and dedicatory, the spectators were respectfully quiet. It was Memorial Day with deep feeling and true meaning.

The grounds of the Red Coat Horse Show with its stable quarters, show and ready rings, grandstand, parking areas and hunt course stretched over twenty-three acres of green rolling country. Thousands of spectators and exhibitors filled the area on both days and the above photograph, taken on Sunday, is proof of the show's popularity in its opening season.

Andover Has Its First Class A Horseshow And Welcomes The Red Coats To Town

The wind whipped the loose dirt from the freshly hoof-marked ring and drove it into the eager eyes of the thousands of spectators that crowded the grandstand, pushed against the fences or stood off on the high sections of the grounds to get an overall view of the Red Coat Horse show conducted last Saturday and Sunday on the estate of Howell Shepard. Dust mixed with mustard and piccalilli that adorned savory smelling hotdogs, sifted into the throats of tonic bottles, settled on eyeglasses, permeated the air, and didn't bother anyone. It was first class weather for a Class A horse show. No rain, no mud, no clouds to mar the sunny Ballardvale skies.

Some 200 horses from throughout New England spent the week-end in the stabling area enjoying their recreation in the large ready ring and frequently showing themselves to best advantage before the judges, walking, trotting, cantering with or without wagons, jumping, running the hunt course, or sometimes, deprived of harness, just standing for inspection. Most of them seemed to enjoy the limelight and when they heard the trumpeter's call, were anxious and ready to do their bit. Other's were not so keen and were adamant in their refusal to take the jumps and one independent kept his four hoofs firmly on the ground and tossed his rider over the hurdle for emphasis.

Another horse could not even be brought close to the jump and when his rider insisted, did a reverse turn and sailed over the fence back to the ready ring. He'd jump but only in the direction from whence he came.

The Andover Hack class which brought forth a number of local horsemen or women gave top honors to Marquis owned and ridden by George B. Horne. Joan Hartigan took second and third place with Malarkey and Pal. Joan rode Malarkey herself and Arnold Bearse was atop Pal. Shirley Stevens, riding Patches, placed fourth. Fifth and Sixth places were won by Shaweene and King respectively.

Judy Shepard, whose horses have claimed many prizes in New England shows, took several important prizes on both days. Thirstane Tip and Upwey Benn Quietude took first and second in the Class 23 Morgan Saddle Horse Stake on Sunday and the previous day took the same places in the Model Morgans while Lord Goeffrey won third in the Model Five-gaited Saddle class. Her horses also took first in the Morgans under 15; fourth in the Open Five-gaited Saddle class and First in the Morgan combination class.

The show was under the auspices of the Andover Firemen's Relief association. The first of its kind in Andover, it is expected to become a yearly event, attracting more and more people to its well-laid out grounds.

GET-UP-AND-GO NEEDED

"A region where there is splendid self-reliance on the one side and a good deal of smugness, bleakness and provincialism on the other."

New England is going to be described in this way by such writers as John Gunther just so long as New England remains this way.

We have lived in Andover fifty years, not fifty years chronologically, but it might as well have been, for in the past year we have exhaustively surveyed a half a century of Andover life. Part of it's been fascinating; all of it's been interesting. Some of it has filled us with something of despair because of what seems to be the inevitableness of entrenched, stagnant stand-patism in our town. John Gunther calls it smugness, talking about New England as a whole. Probably that smugness in Andover is as pronounced as it is anywhere in New England, not excluding much-written-about Beacon Hill. Here in Andover we've been content for many years to bask in the nation-wide glory that is Phillips Academy. We've seen that school become one of the most beautiful academic institutions in the country. One enterprising industrialist gave us Shaw-sheen Village. Here and there are other spots of which we can be proud.

But in general we've made progress very slowly. In many places we've made no progress. While everybody in private life was taking advantage of the many new inventions that have come in since the turn of the century, the town itself has not improved as it should.

For instance, it was early in the century that a great improvement was made. The town decided to spend some money to remodel its town hall. It was a great day when it was remodelled. They even had a party and gave out lemonade to the many who came to see what a wonderful town hall we had. We still have the same town hall, and we are going to always have it unless someday somebody comes forth with vigor instead of rigor. We know where the trouble lies, and we wouldn't be surprised if in a few weeks when our historical book is in your hands you will be able to find out where the trouble lies, too. There are so many of us who want things improved, who want our Andover as fine a town in every way as the town that boasts Phillips Academy should be. We want things done and they can be done, but it's going to take real, enthusiastic, forward-looking leadership to do it, not just leadership in official life, but leadership in business and civic life. We're all thinking too much of ourselves and not enough of our town. Can't we show the rest of the country that the "splendid self-reliance" which they credit to New England is something that can be applied not just to our own selfish little interests, but to a town as a whole.

Gunther claims that New England has become de-vitalized because during the last century many of our self-reliant New Englanders went West and took a leading role in developing the West. "As the New Englanders energetically pushed out, their own area became necessarily drained of much vitality and talent. When people talk of the alleged 'decay' of New England, this is what they usually mean. Like a blood donor who gives too much, it got weak."

Isn't it time that we showed them that we do have real American blood, the kind of blood that doesn't rest on just the past, but builds for the future. It's going to take working together; it's going to mean giving up our self-interest and our smugness and our provincialism.

Here at Bruckmann's we never did think in terms of "sell-em-and-forget-em" — we want people to come back again and again and to call us up with full confidence that their needs will be properly filled. If that's the way you like to do business, we're sure you'll enjoy trading here and you'll save money on good quality merchandise in the bargain.

MACARTNEY'S

AMHERST PRESIDENT TO SPEAK AT P.A. COMMENCEMENT MONDAY

President Charles W. Cole, of Amherst College, will deliver the address at Phillips Academy's 169th Commencement, Monday, June 9, when a class of approximately 200 seniors will be graduated. Qualified members will be presented for initiation into the Cum Laude Society by Chairman Emory S. Basford of the English Department, and Headmaster Claude M. Fuess will award scholarships, prizes, and diplomas.

COAL WOULD KEEP FRANCE OUT OF RED

Monsieur Albert Chambon, French Consul in Boston, speaking before two classes of third-year students at Phillips Academy declared that French communism, never marxist as in Russia, was already on the wane. He pointed out that the temporary success of communism in France was due to the disappointment of all classes of people at the slowness of recovery.

The coal shortage is the most serious block to recovery at present, Monsieur Chambon asserted. While more coal is being mined in France than ever before, the imports from England and Germany which, before the war, had made up two-thirds of the French requirements, have been entirely cut off.

Without coal, M. Chambon pointed out, heavy industry cannot operate and France cannot manufacture the goods for export which would bring in the machines and machine tools which she needs. Thus France, caught in a vicious circle, must struggle slowly and painfully toward recovery.

In addition to parents and relatives of the graduating class, Andover will be host to over 200 Alumni of the school with their families at the first large reunion since World War II. At the Alumni luncheon to be held Saturday, June 7, the Hon. James Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy, will be the principal speaker.

The program for Alumni Day and Commencement is the most extensive ever undertaken at Andover and includes a baseball game with Deerfield Academy after the Alumni luncheon and class reunion dinners, Saturday evening before Class Day exercises. On Saturday the Alumni will be guests at the Baccalaureate service and at a reception by Headmaster and Mrs. Fuess.

King's Daughters To Hold Annual Meeting

The Courteous Circle of The King's Daughters will hold its annual meeting on Monday, June 9, at 6:30 in the South Church vestry. Supper will be in charge of Mrs. Chester Abbott.

A business meeting with the annual reports will be held at 7:30 and Mrs. Harold Wood will lead the devotional meeting.

The new officers will be installed by Mrs. Louise Trull, former president of the Massachusetts branch of The King's Daughters and Sons.

Principal Speaker At Garden Club

Heinrich Rohrbach of Sunset Rock road was a recent speaker at the Greater Lynn Garden Club on the subject: "More Fall Flowers" and "Our Best Berry-bearing Shrubs." On May 21st he was the principal speaker at the Marblehead Garden Club when he talked on "Vines and Trellises."

FROM SIMMONS COLLEGE TO RECEIVE DEGREES

Miss Agnes Gallagher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gallagher, of 105 North Main street, and Miss Mary Curran Vetter, daughter of Mrs. Carl R. Vetter, of 37 Bradstreet road, will be candidates for the bachelor of science degree from Simmons College at commencement exercises to be held in Symphony Hall, Boston, on June 9.

Miss Gallagher is a student in the School of Library Science, and Miss Vetter is a student in the School of Nursing at Simmons.

RECEIVES COMMISSION IN REGULAR ARMY

Captain Warren L. Richardson, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Olin L. Richardson of Andover, has been granted a permanent commission in the Regular Army. Captain Richardson was one of approximately 9,200 officers nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate last week.

Over 80,000 officers and former officers of the National Guard, Officers Reserve Corps, and Army of the United States took competitive examinations for the appointments. Of those appointed, approximately 6,200 were Air Corps officers, 1,000 Ground Forces, and 2,000 Technical and Administrative.

Captain Richardson will be listed in Regular Army ranks as a First Lieutenant, Infantry. He was originally commissioned at the Infantry School in 1942, and is currently on duty with the War Department Special Staff in Washington as Executive in Liaison Section, Intelligence Branch, Public Information Division.

During the war, Captain Richardson saw extensive combat service as a unit commander in the Sixth Infantry Division in the Southwest Pacific Theater for two years. He took part in three major campaigns, New Guinea, Leyte and Luzon, receiving the Bronze Star Medal, Combat Infantryman's Badge and the Purple Heart for wounds received in action in the Philippines. Last year, he was selected by the Secretary of War to escort a group of fourteen leading American editors and publishers on a tour of the American occupation zones in Europe. He entered the Army in July 1940 as a private and served 29 months as an enlisted man before becoming an officer. He was president of the graduating class in 1940 at Pynchard High School and was the Townsman's Pynchard correspondent.

Veteran Graduates From Norwich

Charles L. Sellars, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sellars of 64 Chestnut street, is a candidate for the degree of bachelor of arts at Norwich University's 128th commencement to be held June 9, when Gen. Jacob L. Devers, present commander of United States Army Ground Forces and war-time leader of American troops in Africa and Europe, will be the principal speaker. The old military college will graduate more than 100 seniors, largest class in its history.

The Andover young man, twice-wounded veteran of the fighting in Europe where he served as a first lieutenant of Armored Cavalry, resumed his war-interrupted Norwich studies last year after 37 months in the Army. High in scholarship, he has been on the Dean's List consistently. He also found time to participate in hockey and football. His fraternity is Sigma Phi Epsilon. Sellars graduated from Vermont Academy in 1940, and at that institution he was prominent in three sports, football, hockey and track.

Benefit Movie at The Playhouse

The Ballardvale Parent-Teacher association is sponsoring a benefit movie show to be run off in the Andover Playhouse on Friday, June 6. The features are "13 Rue Madeleine," starring James Cagney, and "Banjo," with Sharyn Moffett. The pictures will run continuously from 1:45 to 10:30. Admission fees will be fifty cents for adults and twenty cents for children.

The show is for a very worthy cause — the purchase of a new moving picture machine for the Ballardvale school — and it is hoped that there will be a very large attendance. Children in all the schools have been selling tickets, but in case you have not purchased yours, you may get one at the Playhouse.

Field Day

The annual field day of track and field events in competition for the championship cup to be awarded to the winning color team will be held on the playground on Thursday, June 12.

Baseball Team Defeats Reading foe

Jack McCarthy, Junior High southpaw, hurled his third victory for the Andover squad at Reading against the Parker Junior High nine, last Thursday. They played a close and well-matched game, with a 7-4 score. Both hitting and fielding showed a great improvement over the last game, which we lost. Base stealing stood out prominently, and showed good results, accounting for several runs. The team's record now stands at three wins and two defeats.

On Friday our team will play Reading again, but on our playground.

The In-Coming Class Will Visit

On Friday morning, June 13, the incoming seventh grade—the present sixth—will visit the Junior High school. At this time, they will be taken on a tour of the building and will be assigned seats in their new home rooms. This is part of the orientation program for this grade, and the rest will be completed in the Fall when they return to school.

At the same time, the present seventh grade will be assigned seats in their new eighth grade home rooms. The same procedure will take place in the present eighth grade class in entering the ninth grade.

Presentation

On Tuesday, during a special assembly program, the Student Government association presented Mr. William McDonald with a brief case and bill fold. Mr. McDonald is leaving Andover within a few days for Washington, where he will enter federal service, and the brief case should be a very necessary article.

A New Teacher

Due to the resignation of Mr. McDonald, Mr. Walter C. Roberts of North Andover entered the Junior High school faculty on Wednesday of this week. Mr. Roberts is a graduate of the North Andover public schools and a veteran of World War II. He will graduate from Holy Cross on June 11. While at Holy Cross, Mr. Roberts majored in education and minored in history. He is primarily a social studies teacher, but will serve as coach in the High school. Miss Alice Bisbee, who has been teaching history in the ninth grade, will take Mr. McDonald's place for the remainder of the year, and Mr. Roberts will enter the eighth grade as history instructor.

A New Face

Room 1 of the therapy department is having its face lifted. Room 1 is a very bright, cheerful room as it is, but it decided that it wanted its ceiling painted, so it's being painted at the present time.

Art Exhibition

The Junior and Senior High art departments are now exhibiting samples of their year's work in the art and music rooms on the third floor of the Junior High school. Mrs. Dorothy Sanborn and Miss Frances Dalton are in charge of the exhibit. A feature will be seen in Room 14 on the same floor — a Latin-American mural entitled "Latin-American Fiesta." It was drawn by Judith Maddox and Elizabeth Barrett, both of the seventh grade, as a project during the study of Latin America in the social studies class. Prizes will be awarded for the school work, and the jury will consist of Miss Alice Bell, Mrs. Maude Morgan, and Mr. Abbott Cheever.

Another special exhibit is that of bookplates. A plate will be chosen for use in the Memorial Hall library, and the judges in this contest will be Mr. Bartlett Hayes, Mrs. Cornelius Heyn, and Mr. Campbell of the Haverhill public library.

Class Books

The bill for the Senior class books has been received from the printers, and hopes are high that the books will be here in time for class night.

Class Night

Monday night is class night. The Seniors will meet for their class supper at 6, and will adjourn to the auditorium about 8 for the exercises. These will consist of the reading of the class history by Deighton Emmons, the class statistics by Carol Dayies, advice to undergraduates by Patricia Collins, class will by Richard Clough, and the class prophecy by George Haselton. These exercises, held in the auditorium, will be open to the public, although the supper is not.

Memorial Day Assembly

Last Friday was Memorial Day, and Punchard observed this occasion with an appropriate assembly. Mr. Lovely opened the meeting with the Bible reading, followed by The Lord's Prayer. After the flag salute and the reading of names of Punchard alumni killed in all wars from the Civil war through the last conflict, Mr. Lovely introduced Mr. William McDonald, commander of the Andover post of the American Legion, who spoke briefly before introducing the main speaker, State Senator Phillip K. Allen. Mr. Allen, who was a colonel in the Army during the recent war, read a poem which he himself had written. He told us that he read it, running the risk of seeming conceited, but that his real reason was that it told in a very few words what he especially wished to say. After the reading of the poem, Mr. Allen told us what Memorial Day meant to him. Taps followed, and the student body then filed back to their classes.

Last Assembly

Last Thursday, the members of the Senior class attended their last assembly as members of the Punchard student body. Athletic letters were awarded, and the whole school joined in bidding the Seniors fond farewell.

Boys' State

Each year the American Legion sponsors a convention of Junior boys at State College in Amherst, for the purposes of studying our government, and how it works, by actual practice. The boys set up their own government, state, city, and town, and follow the processes of government. This year's representative is Jack Sherman, who will leave for Amherst about June 22. The Andover post is sponsoring his trip, which will last for ten days.

Inter-Class Track Meet

Friday, in seventh period, the annual inter-class track meet will be held on the playstead. The classes will compete against each other for the honor of being the best class in track. This promises to be an exciting event, as all the boys are entered. In case of rain, the event will not be held this year, because of the imminence of graduation.

Baseball

Punchard is having an excellent baseball season. We have played two games with our traditional rivals, Johnson, and have won one and lost one. Johnson leads the league, while we run them a close second. There are still a couple of games left to beat them, and the Punchard boys are in there pitching.

Teachers' Association Banquet

The teachers' association held its annual banquet at the Andover Country Club last Tuesday evening, under a committee headed by Miss Marjorie Smith, and consisting of Miss Louise Sherman, Miss Vera Thurston, Miss Evelyn Parker, and Miss Dorothy Kyle. Dr. Stowers showed colored pictures of the Tercentenary celebration and pageant and last year's Memorial Day parade.

Conroy Essay

Last Wednesday, the members of the Senior class wrote extemporaneous essays on the general topic, "What I Can Do To Make Democracy Work." The prizes for this essay will be awarded at graduation, and first prize is five dollars.

Books Make Good Vacation Companions

The privileges of vacation loans are extended again to the borrowers of the Memorial Hall library, effective in the adult library at any time. Under this extension of service any borrower may take any number of books not in special demand and have them charged out until September 15. Very new fiction and non-fiction added within six months are excluded from this long loan, and all books go out on condition that they may be recalled if extreme need should arise.

In the Young People's Room, beginning with the close of the school year, the number of books which may be borrowed at a time on each card is raised to six. These are loaned on the usual two-week period. A long vacation loan may be used by any who plan to be away, or others who would find it a great convenience.

New Books

New books at the Memorial Hall library include the following titles, any of which may be borrowed for home use, or reserved:

The Big Sky Guthrie
After a desperate fight with his father, Boone Caudill went off in the night to the west of Kentucky, where he soon learned to trust only himself. Fierce, hard-living, a name soon to be feared among other pioneers, he held to one friend in a hostile world, and to one woman, for whom he broke his own code.

The Trial of Soren Quist Lewis
Seventeenth century Denmark is the locale of this dramatic story of the revenge that Morten Bruns plotted against Soren Quist. Convincing, with a very decided atmosphere.

The Drinking Well Gunn
For those to whom the Maurice Walsh stories have a charm, this new work of Neil Gunn is a delightful addition to his previous stories of the British Isles. From mountain farms and woodlands to crowded Edinburgh, with all the sounds and scents of both places so vivid that the reader is carried along by words, this is the story of a man who struggled against his own nature and of the woman who loved him.

The House of Many Tongues Hess
Lynn Garrow remained in Prague to help with plans for the 30,000 university students who found themselves there just after the World War. In carrying out her responsibilities, she had many adventures, one of the greatest being her active part in building a student center at the university—a center called "The House of Many Tongues," where twenty-eight nationalities gathered. Although intended for young adult readers, the story has much to offer others who are interested in the melting of many nationalities into one people.

Enter a Murderer Marsh
Ngaio Marsh was herself an actress for two years before she turned to the art of mystery writing, and this theatrical murder has the ring of familiarity with the goings on of stage people.

Madman's Memory Vercel
While two women wait for the return of Luc La Hourie, one anxious for her son, the other in terror of her absent husband, the story weaves its record of growing madness in this skillful although short piece of work. The author also wrote "Silence of the Sea" and "Tides of Mont St. Michel."

Presidential Mission Sinclair
This latest in the series of Lanny Budd's adventures as secret agent finds Budd in Algiers as the President's advance agent, just before the African invasion. Excitement does not end there, for later he finds himself in Germany, with Hitler, Goering, and the scientists working madly to defeat the approaching Americans.

The Ring and the Dream Osborn
Great wealth and jewels had twisted the life of Julia Fenimore into a pattern of hardness and corruption until, aged and lonely, she finds herself with only her past to keep her company in the old mansion on the great river at Cold Falls. Into this unhappy solitude comes one who would take from her the last comfort of her wealth.

The Vixens Yerby
Laird Fournois returned to New Orleans after the Civil war—a reckless, hard-shooting cavalier. Scalawags, men of the south who had turned against their own people, were objects of bitterest warfare among the defeated southerners, and one of these was Laird, who fought his battles as he loved Denise Lascals . . . with no regard for consequences. This follows a good deal in the wake of the author's earlier book, "The Foxes of Harrow."

Sassafras Hill Smart
David McDermott, at forty-four, was rootless, restless and another troubled veteran of the war. A painting holiday, trying to capture on canvas a farming scene, took him to Sassafras Hill, where he stayed, not to paint, but to help the most amazing Brown family.

Lost Anchorage Hough
The Ashmead family, owner of ships that sailed the seven seas from New Bedford over a hundred years ago, had decided the futures of the Ashland sons. Russell, who resented the idea, was to be the stay-at-home and take over the management of the cotton mill, while his brother Tom was to carry on the shipping business and to marry Betsy Riddell's adventurous sister, Mary, for whom Russell would gladly exchange the girl intended for himself—Betsy.

A personal account of Anglo-American diplomacy in Palestine and the Middle East. A clear picture of the Arab and Jewish cases and of the shameful problem of anti-Semitism in Europe. Appointed by President Truman as one of the six Americans to serve as members of the Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry on Palestine, the author, a San Francisco attorney, traveled over four continents, examining the position of the Jewish people.

There's Music in Children Sheehy
A book for parents and teachers that will guide them in bringing out a natural love of music. Mrs. Sheehy tells what instruments to give a child, from kitchen pans to tiny drums, and tells how to introduce a small child to piano music. Many of the experiments conducted at Teacher's College, Columbia, are outlined here. There are lists of books, music and recordings that have proven helpful.

Philosopher's Quest Edman
The author of the well-known "Philosopher's Holiday" has an equally fascinating work in this new volume. Delightful reading for those to whom the leisure of philosophy, imaginary but spirited dialogues with long-ago thinkers, and the uncertainty of classroom discussions have a charm.

The Social Problems of an Industrial Civilization Mayo
The author, Professor of Industrial Research at Harvard Business School, speaks from twenty years of experience in clinical study of concrete industrial situations. Professor Mayo argues that we must "return to patient, pedestrian work at the wholly neglected problem of effective cooperation."

Boston Landmarks Howe
Twelve famous landmarks of Boston, discussed by De Wolfe Howe and illustrated by brilliant photographic work done by Samuel Chamberlain. Some old lithographs and engravings are added. Here, among other sites, are Louisburg Square, Faneuil Hall, Frog Pond, public gardens, King's Chapel and the Hill.

The general staff of the U. S. Advises Continuance Of District Nursing By Private Group

Dear Editor:

Because of my long association with the work of the District Nurse when it was conducted by the Andover Chapter of the American Red Cross, I am especially interested in the pending reorganization of the service. Personally, I am sorry that the policies of the National Red Cross make it impossible for the local Chapter longer to continue this activity. As the change seems inevitable, however, it is my sincere hope that the District Nursing Service may be continued, and continued through a private organization of the citizens of Andover.

The problem of organizing the work is simple. The service has been developed by the Red Cross over a period of some twenty-five years. Methods and policies have been tested by experience, records of past years are on file, a nurse is employed. The transfer of a fully established operating unit from the Red Cross to the new management should involve little more than a change of name.

The program should, in my opinion, be taken over by a private association and not by a municipal board. While in Andover there is not the same danger of politics entering into the administration of the service that there is in some communities, the program would, I believe, lose in effectiveness through transfer to public auspices. The work of the District Nurse has a personal aspect. Not only does its personal character touch the patient, but the support of the work by individuals in the community enlists and holds their interest and gives them a direct incentive to promote the best possible nursing program. This enthusiasm tends to be lost in the impersonality of municipal administration.

The work should be taken over by an Andover organization. It is a tradition in Andover, and one of which we are justly proud, that we, as a community, are able to manage our own affairs and solve our own problems. I, for one, do not wish to see this tradition abandoned. Andover has conducted a district nursing service successfully for many years through the local Red Cross and there is no reason to think that another committee of its citizens could not carry on equally successfully. It seems unlikely that the program would be strengthened by seeking to shift our community responsibilities on to other shoulders.

The problem of financing the work should not be difficult. It has been the conviction of the Directors of the Andover Chapter that a large part of the splendid community support of the Red Cross was due to our citizens' approval of the district nurse. The new organization could count on this continuing. I should hope that eventually an Andover District Nursing Association might develop based on a large individual membership of perhaps a thousand members with nominal annual dues. This could be supplemented by other classes of membership at $5 and $10 or by a list of special givers as was true of the Red Cross. The amount necessary to carry on the work is not large and I am sure will be readily forthcoming.

Sincerely yours,
C. Carleton Kimball.

WHERE TO GO...AND WHEN

Coming events this week have narrowed down to graduations and school and college reunions with June 17th reserved for a special town meeting. Organizational activities are taking a summer furlough and busy townspeople are now finding time to get their tomato plants in. It has been a busy season including everything from May pole dances to horse shows and auctions and how does your garden grow?

Sometimes I think Donald has the right idea. He ducks out of everything but water. He had a close shave recently, though, that almost brought his peaceful existence to an untimely end. He and Dora, she's a duck, too, or possibly a drake, have a nice apartment under a shady apple tree far from the kitchen stove which they don't plan to get next to, and they were peacefully fluffing out their white feathers one Saturday morning when the tree department came along on a spreeing spray, or is it a spraying spree. Donald didn't care anything about having his duck pellets frosted with poison and told the department in no uncertain quacks. Whereupon the kindly sprayers jumped the fence and rescued the pans of food and water from the spree.

"No sense in spoiling the taste of them," one of them remarked considerably.

"What, the pellets?"

"No, the ducks."

There are rumors about that the Police department is harboring a fox. He's locked up tight, but you know how foxy is a fox. Maybe it's not so ducky to be a duck!

Tickets at 1.50 may be purchased at any of the gardens.

How About a Hobby?

Hobby's are fun and local people who have had many hours of enjoyment painting trays, hooking rugs, collecting or applying their talents to all sorts of fascinating industries will show their accomplishments at a public hobby show in the West Church vestry, Saturday afternoon, June 7. The exhibit will open at 2 o'clock and will last until 5:30, with refreshments being served during the afternoon.

The affair is under the sponsorship of the Junior Woman's Union and tickets will be sold at the door.

Memorial Day

The sun shone on
A child's bright hair,
A deep voice said
A solemn prayer,
Eight rifles barked,
A bugle blew,
Then came the echo
Clear and true
Like voices heard
Across the years
Made softer by
The sound of tears. E.F.C.

Special Town Meeting

Tuesday, the 17th of June, has been chosen as the date for the special town meeting, called primarily to affect a change in the zoning by-laws which will allow the new Augustinian College to occupy a portion of a now residential district.

The first article will ask $1,300 for a new heating plant at the town infirmary. The second requests an unspecified sum of money for fire escapes for the Stowe School.

Article three asks for $10,500 to install a drainage system at the southerly end of Shawsheen Heights, this to eliminate a condition which now exists across William street.

Article four asks for authorization for the selectmen to sell the land at the junction of High street and Burnham road, formerly used as a dump. The article specifies that it be sold to a veteran or veterans, presumably for housing.

The meeting will be called at 7:30 p. m. The complete warrant appears on another page.

Policing Prospective Police

A physical examination for the prospective police candidates is to be held on June 21st. It is reported that some of the boys are doing some intensive training at the Y. M. C. A. in Lawrence.

The selectmen have learned unofficially that six of them have passed the civil service examination. They hope to appoint two regulars to the force as soon as possible.

Banned Bands

The owner of the land on South Main street which was recently looked at by a group of gypsies has promised town officials that he will not give his consent to the use of his property for a gypsy camp. The selectmen wrote the owner a letter stating that they would do everything in their power to keep any gypsy bands out of town.

Red Cross Moving Day

The local chapter of the Red Cross has been asked to vacate the Shaw property as of July 1st. Plans for a temporary location are still being worked on.

Late Rate

The tax rate will probably not be ready until after the June 17th special town meeting.

LOCAL MUSICIANS IN CHURCH PROGRAM

Two local musicians will assist in a special Children's Day program to be presented at the Parker Street Methodist church, Lawrence, on Sunday, June 8, at 6:30 p. m.

They are Kenneth Dennison, trumpeter, and Horace N. Killam, Jr., pianist. Mr. Dennison, who studied with Peter Degnan of Lawrence, is well known locally as a member of the Andover Community Orchestra, Opera Garden Orchestra, and Andover Brass Band. Mr. Killam, who is at present studying piano and organ at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, is organist and choir director of the Emanuel Baptist church, Ipswich, and has appeared also at churches in Andover, North Andover, Lawrence and Haverhill.

Master's Voice?

The Superior Court has again been notified by the selectmen that the Master Louis F. O'Keefe's report on the Essex Sand and Gravel case has not been received by the June 1st deadline set by the Chief Justice.
